

Hon. Eng. Fred Moyo

Deputy Minister of Mines and Mining Development

Republic of Zimbabwe

Hon. Eng. Fred Moyo is an accomplished mining engineer, seasoned policymaker, and legislator with extensive experience spanning mining operations, mineral policy development, corporate governance, and parliamentary leadership. He currently serves as the Deputy Minister of Mines and Mining Development of the Republic of Zimbabwe, a position he assumed in December 2025 following his appointment by President Emmerson Mnangagwa.

Widely respected for combining deep technical expertise with practical policy leadership, Hon. Eng. Moyo has played a significant role in shaping Zimbabwe's mining sector transformation agenda. His leadership is strongly aligned with the Government's industrialization and beneficiation strategy under Vision 2030, with particular emphasis on mineral value addition, investor confidence, production growth, and the formalization of artisanal and small-scale mining (ASM).

He is regarded as a strategic bridge between government, mining communities, investors, and industry institutions, bringing balanced leadership that integrates technical competence, regulatory oversight, and inclusive economic development.
